

Who is an applicant?

The statement says that the definition of applicant should cover only individuals who:

- Have applied for a specific, open position for which an employer is seeking candidates.
- Meet the predefined, documented minimum requirements related to a specific, open position.
- Apply for the position during the period that the applicant flow log remains open.
- Comply with the hiring organization's formal recruitment practices.