Career Center Resources

Handshake, an online career services platform that students can use to search and apply for jobs and internships, research employers, schedule appointments and register for career events. This is a great resource for you throughout your time at Northwestern State University!

Handshake Features

The best way to get noticed by employers? Reach out.

How to find/log in to Handshake

There are a few ways to log in to Handshake:

1. You can log into Handshake using the Career Center Home Page (nsula.edu/careercenter/)

2. You can also use nsula.joinhandshake.com/login

3. myNSU- There is a link to Handshake at the bottom of the myNSU login page
How to Build Your Handshake Profile

1. Upload resume, so that Handshake can complete the autofill process.

2. Upload a professional head shot.

3. Fill in any missing information, be sure to include skills, major, education info, etc.

4. Double check that all information is correct and accurate!

Big Interview, an online platform that prepares you to ace your next interview. Big Interview offers full training plus a powerful AI practice tool. You will also get practice with mock interviews tailored to your specific industry, job, and experience. From interview fundamentals to how to close the interview to asking smart questions, you will learn how to answer tough questions.

Go to: nsula.biginterview.com to create an account using your NSU email address.
Choosing a Major
During your search for majors and careers be sure to consider the answers to the questions below:

☑ Does the career match your personality, interests, and values? If you are unsure be sure to take a career assessment provided in the resources list.

☑ What are the job requirements and qualifications? Determine the skills and educational background required for the position.

☑ What is the job outlook? It is important to consider the turn-over/burnout rates as well as continued growth for certain careers.

☑ What are the typical work hours and job duties? A job may or may not pay a good salary, but you should always know if you can fulfill the requirements and work the required schedule.

☑ Feel free to use the following resources during your career and major exploration process.

☑ TypeFocus: https://v6.typefocus.com/

☑ ONET Online: https://www.onetonline.org/

☑ NSU Academic Programs: https://www.nsula.edu/academics/

☑ NSU General Catalog: https://documentproviderviewer.nsula.edu/?id=12146

Exploring career options can be overwhelming.

For this reason, it is important to have an idea of the career or major in which you are most interested.

After determining the career or major that interests you the most, you can begin learning more about them. Gaining knowledge of the various careers and majors will assist more in the decision-making process.

Four-Year Plan (on the next page)
Success needs a plan. There are steps every student should take to ensure they are prepared to be a successful professional in their future career. The Four-Year Career Plan can help you stay on track and succeed in the career planning process.

Work Experience

What Job is Right For You?

On-Campus Jobs
It can be challenging to find part-time jobs on campus. Most on-campus jobs are funded and distributed through financial aid, but some are funded by individual departments.
If you are eligible for Federal Work Study, you can contact the Office of Financial Aid for more information about on-campus employment. Some on-campus departments who hire separately from Federal Work Study are Sodexo (all campus dining), the campus book store and the WRAC. You can search on Handshake or go to these departments to ask about openings.

Part-Time Jobs Off Campus
All Part-Time jobs sent to NSU can be found on Handshake. Go to the Career Center website or the myNSU page and click the Handshake link at the bottom. You can also go to: nsula.joinhandshake.com and login with your NSU email and password. Click the Jobs tab and search for part-time jobs.

Internships and Co-Ops
Internships and Co-Ops are valuable opportunities to make sure your career path is right for you. Real-world experience is an essential component in learning and competing for full-time positions after graduation. Below are some great reasons to seek out some experiential learning opportunities:

» Gain experience in a professional environment
» Check out the corporate culture at a company you are considering for full-time employment
» Apply what you’ve learned in the classroom
» Build your professional network
» Clarify your career focus and goals
» Gain confidence

Volunteer Work
Volunteering is a great way to gain work experience. Whether the experience is in your field or done in service to the community be sure to keep track of duties, hours worked and a contact or supervisor’s information. Plan on adding volunteer experience to your resume.
What is a Resume?
A Resume is a brief summary of your skills, experience, and accomplishments.

There are three main types of Resume formats:

1. Functional Resumes are resumes used to highlight skills and accomplishments. They are most suitable for students with a great deal of volunteer work, school and community involvement, and to highlight achievements.

   Tips for Functional resumes:
   » List work experience in reverse chronological order (most recent to oldest).
   » Best for individuals with little to no gaps in work experience.

2. Chronological Resumes are used to highlight work experience. This resume format is best for students with a consistent work history. It is important to highlight and prioritize relevant professional experience and accomplishments.

   Tips for Chronological resumes:
   » List work experience in reverse chronological order (most recent to oldest).
   » Highlight professional experience relevant to the position you are applying for.
   » Ideal if a person several years of experience in one career path or have for several employers in one particular industry

3. Combination Resumes are used to highlight work experience and skills relevant to the job. This format is typically used for professionals who have several years of experience from diverse backgrounds.

   Tips for Combination resumes:
   » List work experience in reverse chronological order (most recent to oldest).
   » Not ideal if there are gaps in work history
   » Should have several years of experience relevant to position applying for.
Transferable Skills

Transferable skills are developed through experience from employment, education, or training. These skills can be used in a role you are hired to fill for a company. Many people have difficulty identifying their transferable skills. If you have found yourself experiencing difficulty identifying your skills, take a moment to make a list of your experiences including paid and unpaid to help in developing a list of transferable skills.

---

How to use Verbs on your Resume

When writing your resume, you want to include action verbs. Action Verbs are best used when listing job duties because they help make a great impression on potential employers. Action verbs help your resume stand out and highlights your accomplishments.

Transferable Skills

- Communication
- Organization
- Leadership
- Time Management
- Technical Skills
- Problem Solving Skills

Using Transferable Skills on your resume?

Use these examples:

- Coded a Java program for an App. (Technical)
- Organized courthouse documents for attorney research. (Problem Solving)
- Initiated new members into Student Government Association. (Leadership)
- Choreographed and performed the Nutcracker. (Creative)
- Trained middle school students to insert tables into Microsoft Word. (Training)
- Assembled hardware for student computers. (Technical)

Having difficulty identifying your skills?

Schedule an appointment with the Career Center staff to help you further explore your transferable skills to highlight on your resume!

Breaking Down a Resume

1 Heading – The heading will include your contact information. You will list your full name (first and last name is acceptable), address (city and state), phone number, and email address. Your name should be boldface and the largest font size on your resume. The heading should not include personal information such as race, religion, political affiliation, social security number, or citizenship.

2 Objective – An objective is optional but encouraged. Be specific and state the position you are applying for, what you hope to gain, and skills you may possess qualifying you for the position.

3 Education – The listing of your education should include your school name, location (city, state), expected date of graduation, degree name, major(s), minor(s), and concentration(s). You may also list relevant coursework and honors received such as dean’s list or honor’s list. If your GPA is a 3.0 or higher you may consider highlighting it on your resume. Be sure to list post-secondary education only in reverse chronological order (most recent to oldest).

4 Experience – You can include all types of experience in this section; full and part-time jobs, internships, volunteer work, student-athlete experience, band experience, projects and more. When listing any of your experiences be sure to list them by dates in reverse chronological order (most recent to oldest). When listing each experience be sure to list the company/organization name, location (city, state), position title, dates of employment, and three to five job duties for each position. These job duties are best listed using a bullet point format, beginning with an action verb, and stating your responsibilities while working in that particular position.

5 Activities – Activities or campus/community involvement should be listed in an organized format preferably by dates. Be sure to include the organization, position(s) held, location (city, state) and dates.

6 Skills – Be sure when listing skills they are relevant to the position you are applying and a correlation between the skills listed and experiences listed on your resume can be made by the potential employer. Consider listing computer skills, second languages, and any training or additional certifications you may obtain.

A Quick Guide To Resume Writing

9 Key Guidelines to make sure that your resume is at the top of the stack

1. WHO GETS THE JOB is not always the one who can do the job best but who knows best how to get the job! Hence, each detail of this process should have your meticulous attention since people are often screened out on the basis of a poor letter or resume.

2. PEOPLE DON’T READ RESUMES, they skim them. So think of your resume more as a marketing tool instead of a comprehensive data sheet. Use margins and good spacing which makes it easy for scanning.

3. DON’T USE A LOT OF DATES OR NUMBERS. This makes it hard to skim. It is best to list dates using month and year. If abbreviating the month or using numbers, be consistent by using one format or the other.

4. USE ACTION VERBS. Don’t use “responsible for…”. Instead of “I did”, “I was”, and “I am”, use verbs like “initiated, created, developed, supervised, managed, instructed, counseled, negotiated, maintained, ...” etc.

5. EMPHASIZE SKILLS, especially those which transfer from one situation to another. The fact that you coordinated a student organization leads one to suspect that you could coordinate other things as well.

6. DON’T USE NEGATIVE WORDS. Don’t apologize for lack of experience or weaknesses. Be positive, capitalize on strengths, and leave out the negative or neutral words. If your health is “excellent” then don’t say “not bad”. Avoid negative prefixes or suffixes.

7. RESUMES SHOULD BE ONE OR TWO PAGES. Anything longer is an autobiography, not a resume. Don’t overwhelm employers with information.

8. EXPOND ON YOUR RELEVANT EXPERIENCES, condense jobs or experiences which are not directly related. This means that you slant your resume to the type of job you are seeking. Hence, you will need more than one resume if you’re applying for different types of jobs.

9. EXPECT A PHONE CALL if they are interested. Most employers call to make an interview. Seldom will they write. Hence, make sure they have your phone number.

CV vs. Resume

- CVs are typically several pages whereas resumes are generally 1–2 pages in length.
- CVs have more categories than resumes such as publications, research experience, and providing services to universities such as serving on advisory board councils and committees.
- CVs are often formatted differently. Preference for formatting will be made by industry or employer. Be sure to check on the latest updates, preferences, and trends from a faculty member of the university.
Cover Letters

It is important to write a cover letter when applying for a job. Cover letters allow you to give a brief introduction as to why you qualify for the position, reason(s) for being interested in the job and gives you an opportunity to briefly mention personal characteristics that may not be on your resume.

Tips for Writing a Cover Letter:

1. Separate your content into 3 or more paragraphs, but do not exceed 1 page.
2. List the contact or employer information and be sure to address it accordingly. If it's not listed, address your cover letter using the following introductions: Dear Sir or Madam, Dear Hiring Manager, Dear Hiring Committee. Try not state “To whom it may concern.”
3. Use similar terms and language listed in the position description when writing your cover letter to help employers see that you possess the skills and traits they are seeking.
4. Be sure to skip four lines between “sincerely” and your typed name to allow enough space for your handwritten signature.
Social Media

Building your brand online and networking with professionals in your field using social media can be a valuable tool in building your career.

Below are some recommendations for using social media in your career search. Recruiters and employers use social media to learn more about candidates.

Twitter

Use a professional profile photo. Your cover photo can indicate your interests.

Choose a Twitter handle that will be recognizable as you.

Tell your story in your bio: university, class year, major, and keywords describing your career interests.

Add a link to your LinkedIn profile, your personal website, blog, and/or online portfolio.

Facebook

Use a professional-looking picture—you can use the same picture on all of your social media pages.

Add the following to the "about" section: internships and other educational experience, a short bio, and links to other professional social media.

Follow organizations you’re interested in to discover intern and full-time job opportunities, announcements about the company, and potential contacts in the organization.

Pinterest

Drop your professional-looking picture on your main page.

Select a username that is consistent with your other social media platforms.

Create a bio that reflects your goals and brand. Who are you? Why are you using Pinterest? What are your professional aspirations?

Create boards using images and content to share your interests and experiences in your field.

Information courtesy of the National Association of Colleges and Employers.
A positive online presence on social networking sites such as LinkedIn can provide excellent ways to connect with recruiters and other professionals. It can also be a valuable way to promote your professional image online.

On LinkedIn, You Can:
- Keep up with trends and specific industries and industry experts
- Follow companies in which you are interested in working
- Connect with recruiters you meet at Career Fairs or Events
- Search for jobs
- Research before an interview
- Join groups related to your academic and career interests

Professional Headshots:
- Having a current, professional photograph on LinkedIn can help you network and connect with people you have met at Career Fairs, Events and through interviews.
- Attire for headshots is business professional or business casual.
- Students can have a professional headshot made at no charge. Current students can contact the NSU Supervisor of Photography at 318-357-4201 to schedule an appointment for a headshot.
LinkedIn Profile Checklist

- PHOTO: It doesn’t have to be fancy - just use your cellphone camera in front of a plain background. Wear a nice shirt and don’t forget to smile!

- HEADLINE: Tell people what you’re excited about now and the cool things you want to do in the future.

- SUMMARY: Describe what motivates you, what you’re skilled at, and what’s next.

- EXPERIENCE: List the jobs you held, even if they were part-time, along with what you accomplished at each. Even include photos and videos from your work.

- ORGANIZATIONS: Have you joined any clubs at school or outside? Be sure to describe what you did with each organization.
EDUCATION: Starting with college, list all the educational experiences you’ve had, including summer programs.

VOLUNTEER EXPERIENCE & CAUSES: Even if you weren’t paid for a job, be sure to list it. Admissions officers and employers often see volunteer experience as just as valuable as paid work.

SKILLS & EXPERTISE: Add at least 5 key skills - and then your connections can endorse you for the things you’re best at.

HONORS & AWARDS: If you earned a prize in or out of school, don’t be shy. Let the world know about it!

COURSES: List the classes that show off the skills and interests you’re most excited about.

PROJECTS: Whether you led a team assignment in school or built an app on your own, talk about what you did and how you did it.

RECOMMENDATIONS: Ask managers, professors, or classmates who’ve worked with you closely to write a recommendation. This gives extra credibility to your strengths and skills.

The Job Search

1. Start with the end in mind. What roles, industries, companies, and locations are you going to target? Research positions that align with your interests, skills, experience and degree.

2. Get Organized. Create a strategy and timeline for your search.

3. Update your documents. Build a great resume. Draft a sample cover letter that you can customize for each job. Consider printing business cards with your basic information to hand out at Career Fairs.

4. Get out there. Check Handshake often for Career Fairs and events on campus and virtual Career Events. Search for positions often. Join professional organizations and attend events often. Talk with professors and instructors about your plans and seek connections.

5. Get social. Create a LinkedIn account and connect with former co-workers, fellow students, mentors, and professors. Clean up your other social media accounts. Employers really do check! Google yourself and see what pops up.

6. Apply. Apply for positions that match your interests, skills and qualifications. Utilize Handshake, company websites and LinkedIn.

7. Follow-up. After the position closes, follow up with the hiring manager, if possible.

8. Get Ready. Prepare for a successful application. Brush up on your interview skills and make a Mock Interview appointment with the Career Center.
Avoiding Fraudulent Employers & Scams

Use extra caution if:

- Company does not have an established website.
- You receive a job posting or offer via spam email.
- Email is sent from yahoo, gmail, etc. instead of a company domain name.
- Correspondence includes typos or misspellings.
- Companies request your social security number, bank information, or a photo ID before a job offer or interview.
- You are offered a different position than what was advertised.

Don’t Fall for Payment Transfer/Forwarding Scams

- Never... Provide personal bank account, PayPal or credit card information. A legitimate company will only ask for direct deposit information after you have been hired and have filled out formal paperwork.
- Never... Wire or transfer money from a personal bank or PayPal account to an employer. Fraudulent employers will ask you to deposit a check keep a portion and wire the rest back. The checks are almost always no good.
- Never... Pay upfront fees for an employer to hire you.

Research Employers

- Visit the company’s website. Review it carefully for legitimacy. Is it poorly developed or unprofessional? Google the contact information to verify.
- Search glassdoor.com, ftc.gov, or bbb.org to read reviews and get additional information about a company.
- Review the job posting carefully. Make sure you understand the pay rate, whether the position is paid hourly or on a salary basis.
Navigating Career Fairs

Networking at a Career Fair can be intimidating. Many students struggle with approaching employers because they are unsure of what to say.

Creating Your Elevator Pitch

You can always practice your elevator pitch, which is a brief speech about you. An elevator pitch may be used at career fairs, during an interview when asked, “Tell me about yourself,” at a networking event, or when visiting companies.

A good formula to use for developing an elevator pitch is:
Name + what you’re currently doing + what you’ve done in the past + what you hope to do in the future = A Great Introduction

Example: “Hi, I’m Jill Smith, I’m currently a Junior Accounting major at NSU. I’ve just finished up an internship with Price Waterhouse Cooper in Dallas, and I plan on becoming a CPA and working in tax accounting when I graduate.”

Talking Points:

1. Introduce yourself, give your first and last name
2. Tell employers about your chosen major and your potential career path
3. Talk about what you learned by researching their company
4. Ask questions about their company (that you cannot find from researching online)
5. Learn about internship and employment opportunities

Benefits of attending Career Fairs:

- Learn about career opportunities and companies as you prepare for internship and job opportunities
- Network with employers and gain contacts that you can develop relationships with before you begin your full-time job search
- Become more comfortable with talking to recruiters while practicing your elevator pitch
Navigating and Networking Tips:

- Be open-minded
- Research companies and employers that attend career events (see what opportunities/roles are of interest to you)
- Prepare for career events (update your resume and print several copies)
- Get employers’ business cards so that you can follow up with them after the event
- ALWAYS thank them for their time

Interviews

It is important to prepare for your interview by researching interview questions. Most people find it most difficult to prepare for behavioral and situational interview questions. To help prepare responses to behavioral and situational interview questions, start by reflecting on past experiences that involved teamwork, leadership, ethical dilemmas, problem solving, time management, failure and opportunities to take initiative.

The S.T.A.R. Technique

Using the S.T.A.R. technique can help you provide clear concise responses to situational and behavioral questions. Below is an example of how to apply the S.T.A.R. technique when asked situational/behavioral interview questions.

Question: Tell us about a time you had to work under pressure to achieve a deadline for a particular project or task.

Situation

Describe the situation that required you to demonstrate the skill.
I was assigned a team project for a history course in college.

Task

Describe the task assigned. Be sure to state the goal of the task you were working to achieve.
Three classmates and I began working on the project together. However, one classmate became ill and was not going to be able to finish their part by the deadline which was two days away and we still had to finish our individual parts.

Action

Describe the actions you took to fix the situation. Be sure to give enough detail about the actions you took.
To help you stay on track you can give those details step by step.
My two classmates and I decided to divide the remaining work to complete the project by the deadline.

Result

Describe the outcome of the situation based on your actions. Be specific in stating the effect, what happened, things you learned, and how you may apply what you learned going forward.
In the end, we were able to meet the deadline and it taught me teamwork is important and reassured me there truly is no “I” in team. In the future, I will likely set an earlier deadline than the actual deadline for both my part and the group to give us time to plan accordingly and prepare for issues similar to this situation that may arise.
Below are examples of questions you may find beneficial as you prepare for an upcoming interview.

Personal
- Describe yourself.
- What are some of your strongest assets?
- Are you creative?
- Give us one example of your creativity.
- Why should we hire you?
- What satisfactions have you gained from your studies?
- Tell me some things about yourself.
- What motivates you to put forth your greatest effort?
- What are your some of your weaknesses?

Professional
- Tell me in your own words what this position entails.
- Where do you see yourself in the next 5 years?
- What action would you take as a supervisor to establish teamwork in the organization?
- What are some constructive methods of dealing with stress?
- How do you deal with risk on a job?
- What aspects of your career are you excited about?
- How would you support and motivate your team to achieve ambitious goals you set?
- What are the characteristics of a successful team?
- Name some of the pitfalls to be avoided in building an effective team.

Situational/Behavioral
- Imagine you’re assigned an important task, but your team members keep interrupting you with questions. How do you complete the task, and how do you respond to your team?
- Imagine you are required to work with people at various levels within your organization. What would be the best steps to take to work effectively with those people?
- You supervise a group of civilian employees. Your employees appear to be at odds with the uniformed personnel. What steps can you take to improve the teamwork between civilian and uniformed personnel?
- Tell me about a time/situation you had a conflict in the workplace? How did you work to resolve it?
- Tell us about a pressure situation you were in that would demonstrate your ability to work under pressure.
- What are some ways you maintain organization?
- Tell us about an experience you had where you were dealing with a variety of different people.

Phone Interview
- Answer your phone on time for your interview. It is best to prepare and be ready at least 5 – 10 minutes early.
- Conduct the interview in a quiet location.
- Do not eat during your interview.
- Keep your resume nearby as a reference.
- Be near a landline, if possible in case your phone loses cellular signal.

Phone & Virtual Interview Tips:
1. Be sure to test out your technology, including the internet connection in advance.
2. Practice your interview before hand.
3. Conduct your interview sitting in a well-lit room.
4. Choose a clean and professional space to conduct your interview. Minimize distractions in your environment. No pets or loud noises should be in the background.
5. Maintain good eye contact. Be sure to look at your camera and not down at your screen. It is often helpful to prop your laptop on something a little higher to ensure you are looking at the camera.
Professional Etiquette

Dining Etiquette Tips:

- Bread should be broken not cut. Put a serving of butter on your plate and use as needed.
- Always place your napkin in your lap. In the event you need to be excused to answer your phone or go to the restroom place your loosely folded napkin in your seat.
- When cutting meat be sure to use a knife and fork. You will hold the fork in your left hand with the prongs facing downward and the knife in your right hand with your index finger an inch from the handle.
- Only eat finger foods with your finger if the other foods served can be eaten with your finger/hand. Example of finger foods may be chips and salsa or French fries.
- Order foods that can be eaten with utensils and not the most expensive items on the menu.
- Your drink will always be on the right side.
- Do not put your arms or elbows on the table. When you are not eating be sure to put your hands in your lap.
- Wait until everyone is served before you begin eating.

- Before adding seasoning taste your food. If you need salt and/or pepper they should be passed to your left and set on the table not directly in your hands as a set. If someone asks you to pass those items.
- Servers typically serve food from their left and clear from their right.
- Chew with your mouth closed and do not talk or laugh with your mouth full.
- If you need to sneeze or blow your nose excuse yourself to the restroom.
- Avoid discussing topics related to religion or politics and instead focusing appropriate hobbies, books, movies, and traveling.
- When eating soup do not blow on it, let it sit and cool. Be sure to dip the spoon into the soup and lift spoon with the soup away from you. Sip from the edge of the spoon and do not slurp.
- Your utensils will be used beginning from the outside and working your way in. This is the proper etiquette due to the order in which our food will be served.
Office Etiquette: Keep your workspace clean and free of clutter. Be sure to clean up after yourself in any shared spaces. Be mindful of heating up strong smelling food and don’t be the coworker who burns popcorn in the office! Make sure to reload paper in the copier if you deplete it, and empty the shredder if you fill it up.

Business Socials: Attend when you can. Important connections and team building happen at work socials. Try to meet new people. Keep your reputation in mind, this is not the time to cut loose and overshare or overconsume. Put your cell phone away and give the event your full attention.

Be a good Teammate: Contribute to all team projects and maintain your deadlines. Try to cooperate with all different personality types and set clearly defined goals. Check in often with your team to stay on track and help them stay on track. Please, thank you, holding the door open, returning borrowed items, and general kindness can go a long way to creating a great team environment.

Punctuality: Pay attention to work hours and company policies on breaks and absences. Be on time for work. Avoid requesting leave for the first few months on a new job. Be early or on time when meeting deadlines.

Introductions & Greetings: Stand up to meet a person, make eye contact and give a firm handshake.

Phones: Keep your cell phone on silent mode and avoid using it excessively during the workday. Answer your work phone with a professional greeting. Return messages and calls in a timely manner. Be sure to leave a voicemail with your name and phone number if you are trying to reach someone. Speak slowly and clearly, so you can be understood on voicemail.

Email: Respond to your emails in a timely manner. Most office communication is done via email and you will be expected to check it often and respond. Begin with a clear subject line. Use a professional salutation like, “Good morning,” or “Dear Ms. Smith”. Use exclamation marks sparingly. Be cautious with humor in email, it can be misunderstood. Think twice before hitting reply all. Include a signature block with your contact information. Proofread every message carefully. Add the email address last to avoid sending an email that is unfinished. Double check that you are sending an email to the correct recipient. “Mind your tone, it’s easy to misconstrue meaning without facial cues to go along with it. No emails are confidential, your employer can read them any time and the recipient can forward an email to anyone. Make sure that you do not write anything in an email that you wouldn’t want others to see.

Dear Mr. Jones,

Thank you for taking the time to share what I missed in class last week. I also appreciate your advice on the potential job we discussed.

Would you be willing to write a letter of recommendation for me? I can stop by during your office hours tomorrow to discuss it.

Best regards,

You Got the Offer...NOW WHAT?!

The Offer

Get it in writing. Ask for an offer letter. Offer letters confirm the details of the position and should include the position title, salary, start date, reporting supervisor and deadline to respond to the offer.

Tips to ask for an offer letter:
Be polite and show enthusiasm for the offer and position while asking for a letter that outlines the offer details and any benefits included.

Some possible responses after an offer

Open with Gratitude:
“Thank you very much. I am excited to be selected.”

Ask for more time:
“I would like time to discuss this offer with my family/advisor.”
“or”
“I have further interview commitments scheduled within the next week and would like time to complete them before accepting.”
“or”
“I have received another offer and would like to evaluate both before accepting.”

Deciding

Recruiting cycles can vary widely for employers. Employers spent time and money on searching for you and want to know your decision in a timely manner. Most job offers will have an expiration date or deadline for you to decide. One week is an acceptable timeframe to consider the offer and come to a decision.

Finish on a Positive Note:
“I am very excited to give you a formal response! I will be in touch by the end of the week. Please let me know if this works for you and if you have any further questions.”
Negotiating

When should you negotiate?
If the offered salary and benefits are below average or below other offers you have received. If the position description lists the salary as negotiable.

Keep in mind: Employers may have a set pay scale for the position with a beginning salary, a midpoint and a maximum. Many factors go into determining pay on a scale. If you have the minimum qualifications for a position and no experience, the beginning salary is fair. If you have the minimum qualifications, plus the preferred qualifications and more experience than is required, you might be able to justify negotiating a salary at the midpoint of the range. Make sure you consider what is reasonable and fair before you begin negotiations.

Accepting the Offer
Call the person who extended the offer to accept the job. Confirm the date, time and location of your first day of work. Ask what you will need to bring with you to complete all hiring forms, and verify the dress code.

Immediately after the phone call, confirm with the hiring manager via email, as well. Be sure to include the position title, start date and pay in your confirmation.

Sign and the formal offer letter and return it to the employer.

Declining the Offer
If you choose to decline an offer, make sure that you are professional and courteous. You never know when you might run into that hiring manager again. They might be a future co-worker! You should call the hiring manager and thank them for the offer and their time. Explain that after giving it much thought and consideration, you have decided to decline. You can choose to disclose where you decided to accept, or not. Just be sure to be professional and polite.

Changing your mind
By accepting an offer in good faith, you have made a professional commitment to an employer. It is not a good practice to continue pursuing other positions. Employers and recruiters spend time and resources looking for great candidates to work with them and it’s important to be respectful of that by fully evaluating an offer before accepting it. Ask for and take extra time to decide, if you need it.

If you must turn down a job offer you have already accepted
Be sure: There is no going back once you’ve turned down an offer you have accepted.
Read your contract: Know if you have any legal obligations for rejecting the job.
Do it now: Let the employer know as soon as you have made your decision. They won’t be happy, but they will appreciate having time to hire a replacement.
Keep it short and sweet: Call the employer and speak to the hiring manager directly. It will be an uncomfortable conversation, but it is the best strategy. Thank the employer, they spent time and resources recruiting you and hiring you. Explain that it was a difficult decision and try to avoid burning bridges.
Be prepared for a counteroffer: The employer might ask what it would take to change your mind. Be prepared for that and know what it would take.
Learn from it: Try to avoid this scenario in the future. Ask for more time to decide, if that’s what you need.
Tips for decision making and planning for Graduate School

1. Start Early
   Begin at least six months before you plan to apply by exploring options and researching graduate schools. Register for any entrance exams early and give yourself time to prepare for them.

2. Know Your Industry
   Learn as much as possible about your chosen field. Informational interviews and shadowing professionals for the day can help you understand the profession and gain insight into what it takes to be successful.

3. Identify Your Target Schools
   Create a spreadsheet with application requirements and deadlines and stay on track to complete all requirements on time. Build a timeline and stick to it.

4. Visit The Campus
   Contact the Graduate School and set up a tour to help you narrow down your selections.

5. Funding
   Know how you plan to pay for Graduate School and research all funding avenues including scholarships and fellowships.
Job and Internship Strategies for International Students

1. Build a Network. Making connections in your chosen field is one of the most effective ways to find out about positions and get hired.

2. Communication is Key. Being able to collaborate with a team and effectively communicate with coworkers will be key to your success. Work on your English language skills, non-verbal communication and interpersonal skills. Get involved on campus and practice connecting with other students.

3. Find International Friendly Employers. Research companies who are interested in international candidates and find out what they are looking for.

4. Prepare. Follow the guidelines in the previous sections on developing a resume, cover letter, interview skills, etiquette, and preparing for a job search.

5. Understand Your Work Authorization. Visit the International Student Resource Center website or office in Russell Hall for more information on work authorization.

6. Have a Backup Plan. Explore opportunities in the US and in your home country. Find out where your education and experience are most in demand and explore employment options there.

7. Be Honest with Employers. You’ll have to decide what point you want to reveal your immigration status to employers. Be sure to respond honestly about your immigration status and work authorization. Discuss this with employers before the interview process is over so they have all the information they need to make a hiring decision.
